Main development trends and risks

- The revenue base and profitability of the sector are large and exceed last year's results considerably.
- The balance sheet of the investment firms remains liquid.
- The coronavirus crisis had a limited impact on the investment firm sector. All the market participants ended the second quarter in profit.
- Investment firms continue to hold large market risk positions. Trading in market exposures provides the largest part of the income of the sector, but it also causes volatility and risks that can materialise rapidly and that require an effective risk management system.
- The capitalisation of investment firms for the sector as a whole is satisfactory. Even though substantial risks have been taken, these risks are generally covered by capital. The capitalisation of some individual loss-making market participants is on the limit.
